

Jessie Street National Women's Library

Twentieth Anniversary Luncheon

Monday 21 September 2009

Strangers Dining Room

Parliament House

Macquarie Street

Sydney

12 noon for 12.30 pm start

Guest Speaker

Adele Horin

“Do Newspapers Have a Future and Who Cares?”

Award winning journalist and feminist, Adele Horin began her career in journalism in the 1970s on the West Australian. She worked in Sydney, New York and London, and on ABC Radio National, before joining the Sydney Morning Herald in 1988. Adele has been a long standing advocate for social justice and equality for women

We hope you and some of your friends will be able to join us at the Luncheon

Cost: $85 per person ($80 for members of JSNWL)

RSVP Monday 14th September 2009

(Early bookings advised)

As a Special Feature

“Remembering Pine Gap- November 1983” will be on display in Parliament House